Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow: Staying Ethical in an Ever-Changing Legal Environment

This program track may qualify for up to 3.0 hours MCLE/Ethics.

As a new decade approaches, lawyers face the challenge of understanding how evolving social and cultural norms, along with the rapid advancement of technology, alter the legal landscape and shape their professional responsibilities. During this program, members of the bench and bar will provide their perspectives on how current developments in law, society, and technology impact the ethical obligations of twenty-first century lawyers, and what lawyers can do to embrace the challenge and maintain the high standards of the legal profession. The discussion will cover topics such as the duty to understand how technology affects the delivery of legal services; how developments in artificial intelligence will impact the legal profession; confronting implicit bias, harassment, and discrimination in the workplace; managing a multi-generational legal office; integrating a holistic concept of wellness into the definition of competence; maintaining civility in an era of online discourse; the heightened need for pro bono services to support access to justice; and the State Bar’s role in assisting lawyers in meeting their professional obligations, now and in the future.

2019 Criminal Jeopardy Game
What better way to start the day than matching your wits and knowledge against your colleagues in a game of Jeopardy that will test you on everything from movie courtroom scenes to Latin legal lingo to your hornbook days of law school.

Immigration Consequences of Criminal Convictions
The collateral consequences following a conviction can be worse than the sentencing component as individuals are separated from their families, cycled through detention centers, and sent back to a country they’ve never known. The presentation will also examine legal status and documentation and its effect on everyday life from employment to applications for driving privileges.

Exoneration and Transitions
Khalil Rushdan will share his story on being exonerated after serving 15 years in prison for a murder he did not commit. His imprisonment turned out to be just the beginning of his journey as he worked to make the successful transition back into society.

The “Know Your Grounds” Challenge
An objection is only as good as the grounds behind it. This interactive challenge will use fact patterns to test and share your knowledge and about objections during jury selection and trial.

The Betterment of Society and Individuals Through Homeless Courts
Homeless Courts are in place at homeless service agencies across the country. These courts are changing lives and improving communities through a focus on the individual and the critical role that society plays in caring for others. The emergence of these courts can be traced back to Attorney Steve Binder who developed a model in San Diego that spread across the land.

The Myth of Shaken Baby Syndrome
This course will examine the flawed underpinnings behind the expert testimony which has put hundreds of individuals behind bars for an offense they may not have committed.

An Inside Perspective on Justice: Prison Prose and Poetry
The clang of the prison cell door is the beginning of a client’s journey into a world unknown to lawyers and judges. This course will give a voice to those looking at four walls as they describe through their writings their days, their perspectives, and their futures.

This Isn't the MVD Your Mother Knew
Gone are the days when MVD was synonymous with waiting for hours. Here and now are the days when MVD practices and policies are all about technology and customer service. This presentation will provide information every criminal law practitioner needs to know about MVD, its operations, and its reach into every aspect of the justice system.

Memory in the Courtroom
Eyewitness testimony is central to many aspects of criminal proceedings. Dr. Paul Simpson, a Criminal Forensic Psychologist, will examine the dynamic of memory to help attorneys better understand the scientific and legal aspects of memory evidence presented in the courtroom.
